

SOLAN HARMONY

BOOK CLUB

This was the last week of book club for Japanese class. Students read books such as “The Witch of the West is Dead”. Various year levels formed groups, constructed questions, and took part in discussion with their peers. It was fantastic to listen to this revolving discourse. They showed each other respect by listening to each others ideas and offering their own perspective. Some students were able to relate parts of the book to their own life, which added an invaluable layer to discussion.

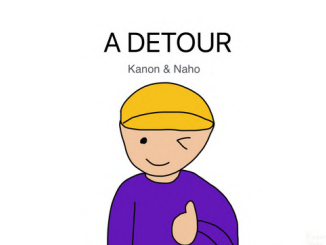

This was also the last week for students to finish their English Storybook Project. Students had the opportunity to express their creativity and hone their language skills at the same time. The stories were captivating, humorous, and at times, a little disturbing. It was incredible to watch students work hard to overcome schedule changes and meet deadlines. Parents can expect their student to tell them more about their book next week at the Parent’s Meeting!
