Taking Risks and Learning

Tomorrow is finally SOLAN Festa! This day represents months of planning and hard work from all of you.

Organizing a big event like this is a huge task, and I have been so impressed with how you have taken responsibility and planned so much of it by yourselves.

As we get closer to the real event, I can see that some of you are starting to feel the pressure. I think it is important to take a step back and remember what really matters. Tomorrow, not everything will go exactly to plan.

Unexpected things will happen, and people will make mistakes. It is almost certainly not going to be a "flawless" event. But that is okay! Taking risks, making mistakes, and then learning from them is a crucial part of growing.

As an English teacher, I feel this is an especially important lesson because it applies so much to learning a language. The only way to get better at speaking English is to speak it more, embrace the mistakes you make, and learn from them. SOLAN is not a place where you have to be perfect; it is a place where you are safe to try.

So for tomorrow, please don't stress too much about everything being perfect. Just do your best and enjoy the day!

We will value "Purpose" and "Ownership" for you
