A Big Opportunity

As you have heard, next year some of you will have the exciting opportunity to visit One Stone in Idaho, USA.

This is a really special chance. We study English every day in the classroom, but going abroad changes everything. It turns the English you learn in textbooks into something real and alive.

The biggest benefit of a trip like this is the connection. English stops being just a subject for tests. Instead, it becomes a key that opens doors. It becomes a way to make new friends, share jokes, and understand people from a completely different background.

You will also get to experience a new lifestyle. Living with a host family allows you to see the world from a different perspective. You will see how American students learn, what they eat, and how they spend their free time. It is a chance to step out of your normal routine and see a bigger world.

Students who go on trips like this usually come back with much more confidence. They realize that they can communicate and manage themselves in a foreign country. That feeling of independence is something you keep forever.

It is going to be an amazing adventure. I hope many of you consider taking this chance to expand your world!

We will value “Purpose” and “Ownership” for you
